09:57: TIFFANY> yer then there wud be 3 ppl laying on the floor then

09:57: KAYLEE> Well like he said, see what is a danger to you before you help anyone else, that sounds bad tho, it sounds very self centered.

09:56: MATTHEW> yea it would

09:56: KAYLEE> yer that would probably be a smart idea. but make sure that you dont get electrocuted yourself. lol. that would be funny.

09:56: TIFFANY> i agree with that statement kaylee

09:56: MATTHEW> yea sh is

09:53: KAYLEE> no probably do something else?

09:53: TIFFANY> so we just watch em

09:53: KAYLEE> Well maybe you should go and get the other person to help you out and then you could call an ambulance to take you to the emergency

09:52: MATTHEW> oh yeh

09:51: Serteva> save them

09:51: MATTHEW> so what do i do

09:51: KAYLEE> It is late in you workday. Most employees have gone home. On the way to sign off you say "hello" to Bill the delivery driver who has just arrived to pick up some boxes from the storeroom. As you walk into the office you notice how quiet it is. There, lying on the floor next to the old printer are two employees. They don't seem to be moving. You notice an empty coffee cup on the floor and liquid running down the machine. There does not seem to be anyone else in the building. What is your best plan of action?
